BROOKHART GETS REPUBLICAN BOOT

LOSES SEAT IN U. S. SENATE STECK TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Result Revives Belief in White House Activity—Far Reaching Political Effect is Forecast—Deposed Radical Legislator is all Worked up Over His Defeat and is Expected to Become a Foe Against Cummins in Coming Campaign in Iowa.

The senate Monday by a vote of 45 to 41 unseated Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, Republican, and seated in his seat Daniel F. Steck, his Democratic opponent in the 1924 election.

The vote was on a motion to adopt the majority report of the senate judiciary committee which, by a vote of 10 to 1, declared Mr. Steck to have been the winner in the election.

Mr. Steck took the oath of office five minutes after the result had been announced, and cast his first vote a few minutes later on a motion relating to adjournment.

Twenty-nine Democrats and 16 Republicans voted to sustain the majority report, while nine Democrats, 31 Republicans and one farmer-labor senator voted in favor of permitting Senator Brookhart to retain his seat.

Altho the Democrats supplied the majority of the votes for Mr. Steck, credit for his victory is given to Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee and the acknowledged spokesman for the Coolidge administration in the senate.

Senator Butler was able to wean enough administration senators from the leadership of Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, Republican floor leader, to accomplish Senator Brookhart's defeat.

Mr. Butler's opposition caused the belief to persist that the White House looked with favor upon the movement to oust Senator Brookhart, notwithstanding President Coolidge's denial last week that he had taken sides in the proceedings.

Senator Brookhart received the votes of radical and independent Republicans, of the radical wing on the Democratic side of the chamber, and of regular Republican senators who follow the leadership of Senators Curtis and David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania. Regular Democrats and Senator Butler's followers on the Republican side supported Mr. Steck.

The result was in doubt to the end. As late as 2 o'clock Brookhart supporters predicted a majority of two votes.

Leaders of the opposing forces exerted every effort to influence doubtful senators until time for the roll call. After more than two-thirds of the senators had voted the vote was a tie, it was not until Senator Joseph T.

Robinson, of Arkansas, had voted that Mr. Steck took the lead, never to be headed again.

The vote is expected to have far-reaching political consequences. The immediate effect will be the declaration of Senator Brookhart as a candidate in the Iowa senatorial primary election this year against Senator Albert B. Cummins, Republican, who is to be a candidate for renomination.

CATTLE DEALER KILLED

Ambrose J. Pontius, 49, stock buyer, 2287 Margaret avenue, Shepard, was killed at 2:30 p. m. Monday near Obetz Junction, when the truck he was driving was struck by a Scioto Valley traction car.

Pontius was driving south in the Groveport pike, enroute to get some cattle. He suffered broken legs, crushed chest and fractured skull.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Flora Pontius; two sons, Roy and Howard Pontius, two brothers, Orville and Grover Pontius and a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Long.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday, probably at the Schoedinger Co., chapel, State and Fifth streets. Burial will be at Lockbourne.

CHAPTER INSPECTION

Monday evening was the date of the annual inspection of Circleville chapter, Royal Arch Masons and the Mark Master and Past Master degrees were conferred on one candidate.

The inspecting officer was G. F. Johnson, of Chillicothe, and he complimented High Priest H. G. Stevenson and his subordinate officers on the work and the secretary on the condition of the records.

Following the work a lunch prepared by H. E. Betz & Son was served by the wives of the officers of the chapter.

183,000 Ladybirds a

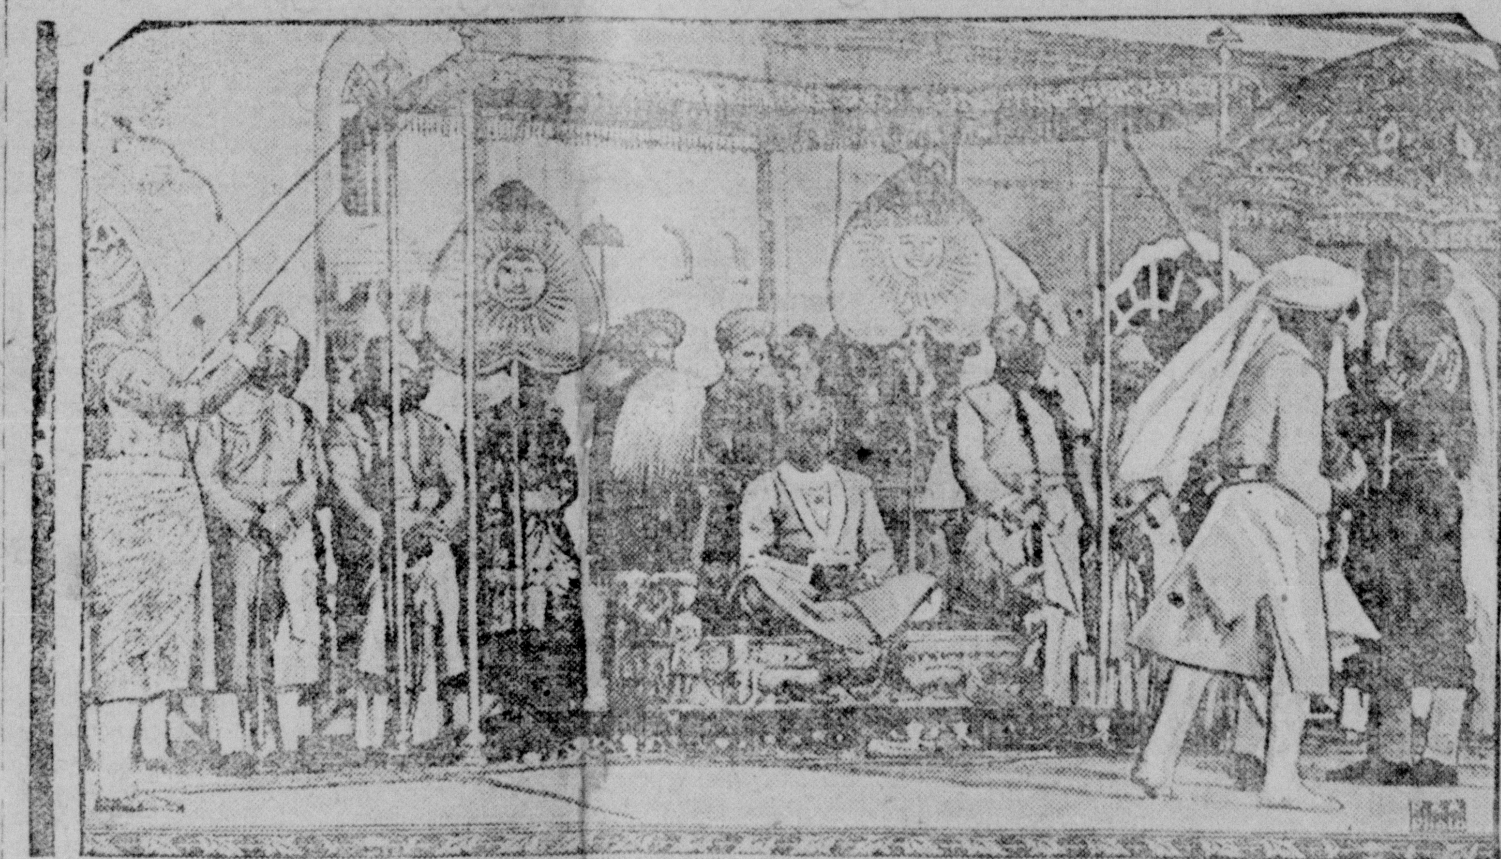

Profit to Insectary

Los Angeles, Cal.—A checkup just made on the Santa Barbara county (California) insectary, established two years ago, shows that a small profit has resulted from the operation of the plant, according to F. C. Greer, entomologist in charge. After all expenses including salaries were paid and 10 per cent allowed for depreciation of buildings and equipment, the county made a profit of $100 from the sale of 183,000 ladybirds at 2 cents each, Mr. Greer found.

The first year the insectary was in operation the county raised 50,000 ladybirds, which cleaned up mealy bug infestations in a number of Carpinteria lemon orchards. The mealy bug, however, has been spreading rapidly, although prevented from doing great damage by its enemy insects. This year Mr. Greer will try to raise 200,000 bugs in an effort to keep the lemon orchards commercially clean.

The ladybird is being employed not only in the lemon orchards, but in the walnut orchards as well, and on lettuce and other vegetables.

Norwalk—A woman sent James Lyons, youthful desperado and killer, back to jail from which he escaped, to face trial and possible execution for the murder of Frank McGrath, express company detective, shot to death at Havana, near Norwalk, on February 18.

Lyons, who escaped from the county jail Monday morning, plunging the entire district into an uproar and bringing scores of men, including national guardsmen, into the field to search for him, was safely in his cell again today.

Lorain—Paul Martinez, 23, known as the "Mexican Sheik," was bound over to the grand jury by the municipal court on a charge of first degree murder, 36 hours after the death of Jose Garza, whom he is accused of stabbing to death Sunday.

According to police, Martinez attacked Garza in a Mexican restaurant and then escaped after threatening the proprietor and a dozen diners with a gun.

Columbus—Reports of the examination of Bowling Green, announced today by State Auditor Tracy, revealed that $303.35 was alleged to have been paid to O. J. Petty, fire chief, as an "illegal payment."

The money, used for the "purchase of supplies and labor," was held to be illegal, according to the state examiners, under section 3808 of the Ohio general code, which stipulates "No officer of a corporation shall have any interest in expenditure of money on the corporation other than his fixed compensation."

Columbus—With biding on the sale of the Champion Engineering company, of Kenton, declared "too low" by Judge Sowers in the Franklin county common pleas court, hearings were continued in the case, for at least 30 days, to allow proper consideration of the bids.

Two firms were said to have submitted bids for the Kenton firm, a subsidiary of the Dollings company, of Columbus, but the names of the bidders and their prices were withheld by the court. According to reliable sources, however, one bid was said to have been made at approximately $105,000.

DECLAMATION PEACE CONTEST PROGRESSING

Seven Boys and Girls Will
Be In Competition at
Morris U. B. Church.

Young people of the local churches who will compete in the "Prince of Peace" declamation contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches this spring are at work memorizing the selections which they will present in the competition in April 25, at 7:30 p. m., at the Morris U. B. church.

Rev. George Weir reports that the following boys and girls of the Morris U. B. church will take part in the contest: Marcella Hampshire, Raymond Paxton, Dorothy Anderson, Mary Elizabeth Rader, Mabel Dumm, Ethel Van Fossen, Goldie Van Fossen.

The winner in each local church that has five or more contestants will receive a bronze medal and will be entitled to compete with similar winners from other churches of the county in a silver medal contest. All silver medal winners from this congressional district will then meet in district contests, with a gold medal as the award.

Finally the district churches of the entire state will participate in the state contest in Columbus, June 23, with three cash prizes of $500, $300 and $200, accompanied by free tuition college scholarships for four years, two years and one year, respectively.

The local church contests will be held between April 11 and 25. Each contestant will deliver a selection on world peace, taken from a book of 20 such articles by some of the country's outstanding authorities in this field and published by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The contest is open to Ohio residents who on April 25 are 14 years old or over, but not yet 19, and who are not and have not been enrolled as college students.

Sends Cent to Pay Income Tax; Has Change Coming

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Officials at the internal revenue collector's office here are faced with the problem of making change for a man whose income tax is the smallest ever reported here.

Included in one day's mail was a sworn statement of annual income from a railway employee of El Reno, which, minus all deductions, showed the exact amount of 17 mills due the government.

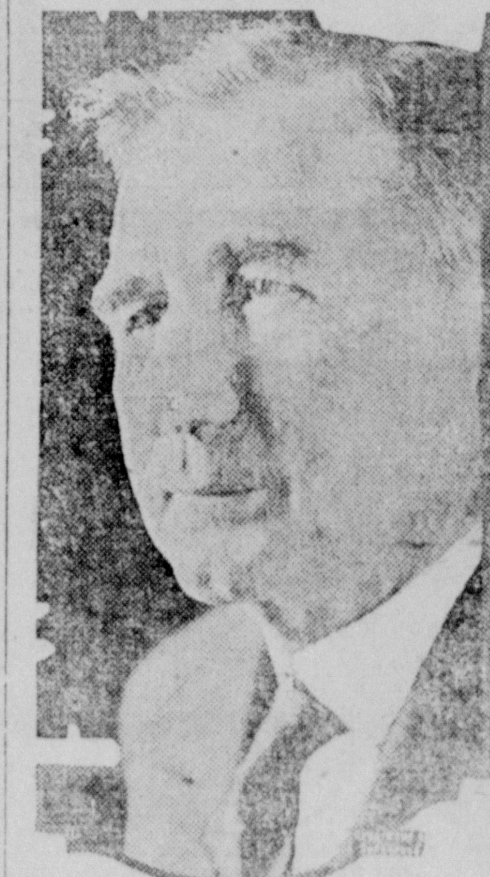

A penny accompanied the return and officials are in a quandary as to the proper method of procedure.

RADIO IN HOSPITAL

A complete radio system and broadcasting outfit has been installed in the White Cross hospital, Columbus, by which the chapel services and the music are transmitted to every part of the big buildings and all the patients are enabled to enjoy the splendid programs.

The system was sold to the hospital by Earl Kibler, who is the representative of the Kellogg company, of Chicago. It was used last Sunday for the first time and was a complete success and everybody connected with the hospital was delighted with the results.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

One of the most interesting and well attended meetings of the Von Bora society was held Monday evening in the social rooms of the church. A picnic supper was served at 6:30. The tables were beautiful with their decorations of various colored potted geraniums. After a bountiful supper Rev. Troutman as toastmaster in a clever manner introduced the speakers and musicians in the program as follows:

Loyalty Ethel Stein
Vocal duet
Never Marry Minnie Mason
Piano Solo Helen Pickens
Recitation Dolly Howard
Whistling Solo Mildred Barthelmas
Why Women Should be Interested in Politics Mrs. Ella Lindsey
The regular business meeting then followed this program, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

NAVAL MUSEUM TO BE MADE OF OLD IRONSIDES

America's Famous Fighting
Ship Will House Relics
of Early Days.

The patriotism and generosity of business men has been stirred to give to "Old Ironsides" some of the materials necessary for her restoration. Already Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the First Naval District and National chairman of the save "Old Ironsides" fund committee has received assurance of contributions of materials that are the equivalent of about $50,000 in cash, and he has hopes that much of the material for the rebuilding of the ship will be donated by patriotic business associations.

The West Coast Lumbermen's association have given the masts and bowsprit of the ship from the great redwood forests of the west coast. The Southern Pine association of the south are looking over the plans and specifications sent them to see what their stock of pine can contribute. The Hardwood Manufacturers' association are planning to do their part. From Pensacola mud is being taken out live oak frigate knees and beams put in water storage 80 years ago.

One of the great paint manufacturers of the country is offering paint. A copper producing company is considering how to replace some of the copper first made by Paul Revere's foundry for "Old Ironsides." A contribution of cordage and one of sail cloth for the mighty wings of "Old Ironsides" are in prospect.

Such contributions are very welcome to the Save "Old Ironsides" fund as the material alone to go into the reconstruction of the ship will amount to over $200,000 if bought in the open market. The following will be used in reconditioning. Copper sheathing, cordage tar, oakum, sail cloth, furniture, dishes, beeswax, twine, flags, signal flags, boats, and old relics of the days of sailing ships. Wood working tools are also needed.

It is hoped by Rear Admiral Andrews to make "Old Ironsides" a veritable naval museum when this old historic treasure is once again fitted for sea duty. The navy department is scouring every corner of the nation to secure relics of the early days of the American navy. These will be placed aboard the U. S. S. constitution and the names of the donors and the history of the relics will be incorporated in the records of the ship. In fact every contribution, whether in cash or in kind, will be preserved in the records which will be placed aboard the ship, so that when "Old Ironsides" makes her voyage along the sea coasts and to the lake and river ports Young America will have an opportunity to inspect a great naval museum, as well as to walk the hallowed decks of America's most famous fighting ship.

Call Saves Teacher Overcome With Gas

Superior, Wis.—A friendly visit to learn why Mrs. Helen L. Burhans was not present to instruct her English classes at Central high school saved the life of the teacher.

When Miss Nellie McConnell, also a high school instructor, called at Mrs. Burhans' home she found the woman lying unconscious on the kitchen floor and gas pouring from an open jet on a range. Water being heated had boiled over and put out the flame. The teacher is recovering.

NAVAL WEDDING

Of more than usual interest in naval circles as well as local society was the wedding last evening in St. Stephen's Church, Hollywood, of Miss Burnice Walling, daughter of Commodore Burns Tracy Walling, U. S. N., and Mrs. Walling, and Ensign Harry Bailey Heneberger, U. S. N., son of Ellis Andrew Heneberger, of Winchester, Mass., the marriage service being read at 8 o'clock by Rev. Philip A. Easley in the presence of 200 relatives and friends.

The Easter motif was carried out in the altar decorations and all the male members of the wedding party, as well as many of the guests, were in full-dress uniform.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the wedding gown of her mother, which was also worn by her only sister, Mrs. James Sutherland Spore, wife of Lieutenant-Commander Spore, U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, at her wedding ten years ago. It was of rich white satin made bouffant fashion, with trimmings of duchesse lace, the overslip of silver maline, while the court train was of the satin.

The veil forming a coronet about the head was held in place by diamond love knots and orange blossoms at either side of the head, and she carried an arm shower of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley, the same ribbon shower being used as at the weddings of her mother and sister. Silver slippers and hose completed the exquisite costume.

Mrs. Spore, her sister's only attendant, was most charming in gown of orchid taffeta, made bouffant, with hat to match, gold slippers and hose, and she carried an arm shower of pastel shades of sweet peas.

The best man and eight ushers were all classmates of Mr. Heneberger at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, as well as messmates aboard the U. S. S. Maryland. Ensign John Hammock served as best man, while the ushers were Ensigns M. J. West, J. H. Lewis, T. S. Daniel, P. M. Clyde, F. D. Karns Jr., George Gusek, F. B. Wright and T. Lesser, all in full-dress uniform, and after the ceremony Mr. Heneberger and his bride left the altar beneath the archway of the sabers of the ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, 6102 Glen Towers, seventy-five guests being bidden, intimate friends and relatives.

Mrs. Walling received her guests in a rose-colored gown with silver sequins. Among the distinguished guests present was the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Robert Boyd, widow of the late Capt. Boyd, U. S. N., who wore a gown of black satin and jet, and also Admiral and Mrs. Hughes, Admiral Jackson and his niece, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Admiral and Mrs. Ziegemeier, Capt. and Mrs. Thomas T. Craven and Miss Olga Craven.

Following the cutting of the bride's cake by the bride with her husband's sword, Mr. and Mrs. Heneberger left for a ten days' honeymoon, and they will return to San Pedro, where they will be at home at the Robal Inn until the U. S. S. Maryland leaves for Bremerton for overhauling and repairs, when Mr. Heneberger leaves with his ship, and Mrs. Heneberger will join him there. —Los Angeles, (Calif.) Sunday Times.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. G. W. Heffner, of this city.

Important Place for Legume Crop

Do Not Improve Soil Unless Many Conditions Are First Right.

Legumes have had an important place in crop production for many centuries. No doubt one of the chief reasons for the great popularity of this class of crops is the fact that under suitable conditions they may have a very desirable influence upon the crops which follow them. The increased corn yields following the use of a clover crop as a green manure testify to the worth of legumes for soil-building purposes.

Soil Improvement.

The idea of soil improvement is so frequently associated with the term legume that one often overlooks the fact that all legumes are not equally effective for this purpose, according to O. H. Sears, assistant chief of soil biology at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. As a matter of fact, legumes not only differ in their ability to improve crop yields, but they may at times even have a tendency to lower the fertility of the soil. The extent to which legumes are valuable in soil improvement will depend upon a great many conditions. One of these conditions is inoculation.

Legumes are considered soil-building crops primarily because they have access to atmospheric nitrogen, provided their roots are well supplied with nitrogen-gathering bacteria living within the nodules on the roots of the plants. Such plants are said to be inoculated. Inoculated legumes thus may secure their nitrogen from the inexhaustible supply of the air. If not inoculated, however, legumes, like other kinds of plants, must depend upon the soil for their nitrogen as well as their mineral requirements, and since they are heavy feeders upon nitrogen and other plant-food elements, they may be the most effective "miners" of soil fertility grown on the farm. To function as soil-building crops, legumes must, therefore, be inoculated.

Benefits Derived.

The method of utilizing the crop is another important factor in determining the benefit to be derived from the growing of a leguminous crop. Under the best conditions, even inoculated legumes secure only a part of their nitrogen requirements from the air. Approximately a third of the nitrogen found in the legume plants comes from the soil. It is apparent, therefore, that the soil content of this important element can be increased only by returning a portion of the plant to the soil in the form of roots, stubble, residues, and as green or stable manure. A larger proportion of the tops must be returned in the case of some legumes than is necessary with others. Nine-tenths of the soy-bean plant is contained within the tops, while about one-half the alfalfa plant is below the ground. Thus, removing the whole soy-bean crop and returning nothing in the way of manure or threshed straw would tend to deplete the soil, even though the plants were inoculated, whereas the removal of a crop of alfalfa would have a much less serious effect. Soil improvement can be accomplished therefore by returning a major portion of inoculated legumes to the soil in one form or another.

Poison Bran Best Remedy for Cutworm Invasion

Cutworms come more or less periodically and they should not be confused with the army worm which appears much less frequently. The army worm works both day and night while the cutworms do their work at night. When cutworms are abundant the poison bran is the best remedy. It is made of bran with enough molasses to make it palatable to the cutworms, and the two mixed with parisgreen. The bran may be sprinkled along the plants and it is the cheapest and most effective remedy. There is no reason to fear another attack next year on the same ground, although there are likely to be some. If they do appear when carrots and beets are up, then use the poison bran. The larvae or worms do not lay eggs as this is done in the moth or miller stage of the insect's life. If the pupae are numerous and they can be destroyed in some way that would help lessen the danger next year. If they march in numbers at night dig a trench along the plants to be safeguarded and put poison bran in the trench where they will eat it and die in droves.

Cow Testing Association

Work Proves Grain Pays

"Does it pay to feed grain to my cows?" is a question which many farmers are asking themselves, report dairymen at Kansas State Agriculture college. Results have been obtained in cow-test association work clearly proving that it does, even in a season of high feed prices.

Under favorable conditions it is possible to produce an average of 150 pounds of fat yearly on a ration of good roughage such as alfalfa hay and silage.

But with cows capable of producing more than this it is very questionable if it is economical to limit the feed, say the dairy specialists. Like a manufacturing plant, the dairy cow is only operating on the most economical basis when being run to her normal capacity.

floor of the jail.

Sheriff Edward Gregory had taken extra precautions to prevent the youth's escape but had failed to put a guard at the cell door.

Gregory visited the cell last night at 7:30 o'clock to make sure his prisoner was safe. The turnkey had just made the rounds and had examined the cell lock.

The escape was discovered at 7 a. m. when a deputy turnkey took the prisoner's breakfast to
the cell.

The cell door and the door leading from the bull pen to the bridge of sighs were open.
Lyons' cot was empty.

A window in the bridge of sighs had been raised and a blanket tied to a radiator, was suspended from the window.

Lyons will never be captured
alive Sheriff Gregory believes.

"The boy has shot his way out
of too many holes to surrender
now, only to face death in the electric chair," Gregory declared.
"If we should surround him and
attempt to capture him, someone is going to be hurt."

James Lyons had only been permitted to see his parents, his sister, Belle, 16, and his attorney, since he was returned from Michigan.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Lyons, visited both boys
Saturday. They may have aided
James to escape, Gregory said,
adding however, that he doubted that Mr. and Mrs. Lyons would take such a risk.

James had been permitted use
of the regular eating utensils and it was regarded as a certainty that he had fashioned a crude key from a spoon and timed his plans to the minute.

The exact hour of escape is believed to have been 5:30 a. m.

Trained for Warfare

By a federal law of 1910, military training in Australia is compulsory on all male citizens between the ages of twelve and twenty-six, and in the cadet corps from twelve to eighteen years; in the citizen soldiers, twenty to twenty-six, with short periods of training in the field. The universal training law was continued in 1922,
but its operation is restricted to the more populous centers and confined to youths between seventeen and twenty years of age.

Just Begun

Merle Waterman, boys' secretary of the Hollywood Y. M. C. A., was rudely
interrupted in the middle of an engrossing novel by Louis Mellet, physical director and basket ball coach.

"Have you been reading Longfellow?" Louis wanted to know.
"Now, only about fifteen minutes," grunted Merle, turning over another page.

Gilbert O. McGilvary of Walla Wal-age of seventy-two was, when he was born at Trempealeau, Wis., in 1833,

the tiniest baby on record who lived.
There were no baby incubators in those days and his survival occasioned widespread interest.

Helping Late Comers

Some of the more fashionable theaters playing legitimate drama are now printing a synopsis of the first act of their show in the program, thus enabling the majority of the audience,
who come late, to know what is going
on. —The Outlook.

"Nobody wants music with it."

Bird Widows Don't Mourn

In bird world, widowhood does not for long interfere with the rearing of a family. William Lyon, president of the Inland Bird-Banding association,
saw the mate of a wren killed. Twenty minutes after its death, Mrs. Wren returned to her nest with a new mate.

Artificial Teeth

Most authorities agree that artificial teeth should be worn constantly. Removing them for the night causes the jaws to assume an unnatural position, bringing a pressure upon the nerve at the hinge of the jaw. This has even been known to cause deafness.

Evil of Prejudice

It is no exaggeration to say that the greatest obstacle to human progress along every line is to be found in human prejudices. It is our prejudices that blind us to the truth, and it is truth alone that can ever make men
free.—John Herman Randall.

SPEND WINTER IN THE LAND OF SUNSHINE

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver
Well Known Residents
of St. Petersburg.

The St. Petersburg (Florida) Times in its issue of April 4, printed the following article in reference to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver, of South Court street:

For 65 years Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver, Circleville, Ohio, have been a man and wife. The Weavers have been coming to St. Petersburg for the 90 past 28 years, and this past week they 50 started home for the summer, planning to return here again next fall, 10 for their 29th season. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver lived for seven years at the Florence Villa, for 20 years at the Ansonia and this past season at the Tamiami hotel.

Not a brick of pavement was laid in the streets of St. Petersburg when the Weavers first came down here. But the love of the city was soon instilled in their hearts and today the Sunshine city forms a big part of their affections. They are very fond of the city and they have a wide circle of friends among the sojourners who have been coming year after year and among the folks who are among the more recent arrivals. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver make friends because they are charming folks, sterling characters.

The Weaver home in Circleville is always open to young folks and while they have a grown son and grand-daughter and two charming great-grandchildren, they never have lost their interest in young children and young folks. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver will never grow old at heart. Mrs. Weaver has a delightful manner of dress and she is of the opinion that just because a woman has passed the half century is no reason why she should don blacks, browns and black. Mr. Weaver has been in the wholesale grocery business for a good many years, under the firm name of W. J. Weaver & Son. Today the only son and child of the Weavers, Charles Weaver, conducts the business while the father, as the latter says, "plays." The son lives right next door to the father and mother and the two great-grandsons are the pride and joy of the two households.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were born and brought up in the Methodist faith. Mr. Weaver is a Mason and a Shriner and has gone thru all the Masonic degrees, including the 32d.

In the early years when the Weavers first began to come to St. Petersburg they never returned to their hotel after a walk about the city but what they had to take off their shoes and shake out the sand. Mrs. Weaver laughingly added that they got Florida sand into their shoes early, that they have never shaken it all out and they never expect to.

The Weavers wholesale business is one of the largest of its kind in the midwest and the concern is located in the very town where the father first saw the light of day. Mr. Weaver Sr. was born in Circleville in a log cabin over 80 years ago. When Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were married, 65 years ago, they drove away from the minister's home and the happy and courageous groom had but $6.50 in his pocket. They were young and full of optimism and judging from the fruits of their efforts they were on the right track.

It has always been Mrs. Weaver's custom to give the son a turkey dinner on his birthday, but this year they will have to postpone the event for a few days, until they get home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Weaver came here 28 years ago they were planning to spend but two weeks here. But their very first visit was of longer duration than they originally intended and now each year they come with the express purpose of spending the entire season. They come early and stay late and if everyone followed the advice of this remarkable Circleville, Ohio, couple, St. Petersburg's population would be vastly larger than it is today.

Spot to Be Guarded

Authorities say the Adams apple is the most sensitive spot on the human body. Pressure with both thumbs at this point is almost unendurable, while a sharp blow there will paralyze the power of speech and interfere with breathing and swallowing to a degree that is torture.

Modern Dodgers

Formerly Americans dodged only taxes, work and cars. Now they dodge winter, also, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

SAYS FRENCH HAVE MASTERED MEASLES

Nation's Health Declares It Can Be Controlled.

Washington.—Development of an anti-measles sero-prophylaxis by French scientists promises to make possible the prevention and control of measles, "the most serious acute disease in existence," according to The Nation's Health. The Public Welfare Administration of Paris, France, has established two centers for the production of serum from measles convalescents and for its application in accordance with epidemiological and clinical studies of Prof. Leon Bernard and his pupils, Robert Debre and Pierre Joannon.

Already the work is considered to have demonstrated the practicability of laboratories of anti-measles sero-prophylaxis attached to children's hospitals and hospitals for infectious diseases and the effective nature of preventive work in measles as developed by these research workers, especially in institutional fields, says the writer. It is stated that no untoward incident or criticism has arisen during the progress of the work.

Preventive Properties Known.

"The method usually applied has been to inject the serum from the first to the sixth day of incubation. This prevents the impending attack of measles and confers a transient immunity from the disease."

"Discarding the traditional methods, Robert Debre proposes as an improvement the use of sero-attenuation to replace sero-prevention. The serum is injected at the end of the period of incubation. The measles is not prevented, but it appears in a greatly attenuated form. Mucous catarrh is either totally absent or very slight. Ocular catarrh hardly ever occurs. Persistent well-being characterizes the patient throughout, the dread complications of otitis or pleuro-pneumonia have never arisen, and a permanent or greatly prolonged immunity conferred by the prevention methods formerly used."

"Experience has not extended over a sufficiently long period for an estimate of statistical results on the measures of prevention, but Professor Bernard's method of inducing immunity has been successfully utilized to prevent epidemics in institutions, and in the families of children exposed, and the memorandum of Professor Bernard reported by the health committee of the League of Nations, declares that the effectiveness of sero-prophylaxis is now definitely established and the practical value of sero-prophylaxis centers is fully proved by results so far achieved."

Most Serious Acute Disease.

"Measles is the most serious acute disease in existence. In the last 25 years, the total mortality due to diphtheria has fallen off in ten of the principal European countries by 67 per cent, scarlet fever mortality by 46 per cent, and whooping cough by 43 per cent. Mortality from measles over the same period has fallen off only 19 per cent. It is so prevalent that hardly anyone in any part of the world can hope to avoid it."

"The figures adduced recently by the American Journal of Hygiene go to show that more than 90 per cent of urban populations in England, Canada and the United States contract measles at some period of their lives."

"To go back to Professor Bernard's figures, in the whole of Europe with the exception of Russia and the Balkans, measles caused 700,167 deaths in the ten years from 1900 to 1910. In the United States, in the zones subject to notification, measles has caused more than 100,000 deaths in the 20 years from 1901 to 1920."

"The epidemiological aspects of measles are interesting as brought out by the pupils of Professor Bernard. The reason the seriousness of measles is not fully appreciated is that the disease has quite a different effect according to the categories of children it attacks. As a general rule, measles is mild in the country and in the small towns. It is much more dangerous in the great crowds of the large city. Thus, in France, measles mortality is three times greater in Paris than in communes of less than 5,000 inhabitants. The difference is negligible in the case of diphtheria and whooping cough."

AMUSEMENTS

"Womanhandled," the answer to "Manhandled" by the same author, is the feature at the Met theater. Richard Dix is starred with Esther Ralston Margaret Morris, Edmund Breese and Ivan Simpson in the supporting cast. Directed by Gregory LaCava as his first picture for Paramount, "Womanhandled" tells a story of modern western ranch life—a farce comedy in which the star, as Bill Dana, an eastern "softly," hires himself to the wild and woolly west to make a real man of himself. There is, of course, a pretty girl behind it all—Miss Ralston who greatly admires men of "the great open spaces." The picture is taken up with how the star goes about winning the girl's heart when he arrives on his uncle's ranch in Arizona and finds that the west of yesterday and the west of today are entirely different.

How he goes about rearranging things, digging up "atmosphere" so as to make the ranch look like "the real thing" when the girl arrives to see her new made hero is a big laugh. And it's riot when the girl sees thru the scheme and prances off in a huff to "home and mother."

Rapid-fire comedy, warm romance and plenty of rousing action pack every foot of Womanhandled." The title alone ought to be enough to get you in and, believe us, the picture will surely make you mighty glad you went.

"Womanhandled" is the type of clean, keen, wholesome material the whole family will enjoy.

Luther Reed wrote the screen play from Arthur Stringer's Saturday Evening Post story.

TWO BILLION

Dollars In Foreign Oil Investments Are At Stake In Mexican Crisis.

A strict interpretation of the new land and petroleum laws in Mexico would practically confiscate two billion dollars of foreign investments in oil, more than one billion dollars in mining and approximately another billion dollars in ranching, agriculture and business, according to Gerald R. Severn, in an article in this week's Liberty.

"Few persons realize how important a crisis in Mexican oil is to industry in the United States," writes the author. "Since May 14, 1901, Mexico has supplied practically one-quarter of the oil of the world—with apparently the greatest supplies still untouched."

In the Tampico field, Mr. Severn explains, there is the largest gusher in the world. It produced more than 110,000,000 barrels after running wild for three months, pouring millions of gallons into the Buena Vista river. There are a dozen wells with records of more than fifty million barrels and one field has had two gushers that have produced more than seventy million barrels. One gusher, which came in on February 9, 1916, went wild for nine days, running 260,858 barrels a day, and after being capped produced eighty million barrels and still is producing.

"Mexico last year discovered more oil than any field in the world," says the writer, "although shipments decreased."

"And herein is a phase of the situation that is not mentioned either by Mexicans or by the oil companies, for different reasons but that bears acutely upon the present crisis. That is the fact that wells have been drilled faster than pipe lines and ships could take the oil away."

"As a result, enough big producing wells have been drilled and capped to supply the world with oil for a long time. The Mexican administration now claims the right to control and operate, or lease to others for operation, all oil lands, and could take possession and unload hundreds of millions of barrels of oil merely by turning a valve and without the further investment of a cent."

"There is no doubt of Mexico's right, legal and moral, to enact laws governing ownership of land or mineral rights by aliens, but Mexico's right to dictate who shall own, control, and operate industries already established, legally purchased, and recognized by its own Supreme Court, is disputed."

"The big international principle involved is whether a government may confiscate property of aliens and whether the legislative branch of any government may overrule the decision of its Supreme Court."

REVIVE OLD CELTIC LANGUAGE IN ERIN

"An Roinn Taithe Agus Talmhaíochta, Fo-oinn Aicidí na Plannáil." This mysterious statement means nothing more startling than "Department of Land and Agriculture, Plant Disease Division."

It heads the letters of the Free State government potato expert of Ireland and is a specimen of the old Celtic language used many centuries ago and which many Irish, in their ardent love of tradition, would revive for common usage, says the Los Angeles Times.

The "Irish" potato, so-called, was grown first by natives of South America and was transported to Europe by Spanish explorers. It was introduced into Great Britain in 1586 by Sir Francis Drake. It became very popular in Ireland, for it took kindly to the soil and climate there and produced great stocks of cheap food. For several years, the English gardeners did not care for it, but today it is more highly developed in England than in America.

STETSON HATS

CONSIDERED from the standpoint of the length of time you wear it, a Stetson is the cheapest hat you can buy. The smart style is an added attraction that costs you nothing, but it's a big factor in hat-satisfaction—an unbecoming style looks better on the shelf.

Our Stetson styles for this season will not stay here very long,—they will go out quickly on the heads of satisfied wearers.

SEVEN IN JURY
FIXING CASE PLEAD
NOT GUILTY

James Donovan Admits Guilt In U. S. Court of Trying To Tamper With Kirby Jury.

Cleveland, April 10.—Seven of the 10 persons cited earlier in the week by a federal grand jury indictment charging conspiracy to "fix" prospective jurors called for duty in the two government court trials of Josiah Kirby, appeared today before Judge D. C. Westenhaver, pleaded not guilty and were liberated under bond pending trial June 14.
An eighth, James Donovan, Mansfield politician, pleaded guilty, while the remaining two defendants were not required to appear.

Those who pleaded not guilty are: Ben A. Williamson, former Cleveland newspaper man, now in the employ of Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount Co.; his wife, Martha Ann Williamson; Daisy Burneson, stenographer for a Cleveland law firm; Jesse E. La Dow, Mansfield lawyer; Gibson P. Gillmer, Warren attorney; Bellman Jones, reporter who covered Kirby's government court trials for out-of-town newspapers, and Meta Kretschman, Kirby's private secretary.

Five of the seven, Williamson and La Dow excepted, were held in bond of $2,000 each, which they furnished. Williamson and La Dow, under heavy bond as a result of previous individual indictments returned against them, were permitted to go free without additional security.

Judge Westenhaver deferred passage of sentence on Donovan. Donovan pleaded guilty to an individual indictment returned some time ago. He furnished bond on that occasion. No additional security was required today.
Kirby and William R. Irvin, Akron attorney, were not required to appear, Irvin because he is ill and Kirby because he recently was granted permission to return to California.

THE FOREST FIRE MENACE

Protection against forest fires is the greatest need for some 1-150,000 acres of Ohio's permanent forest lands. Every spring and fall the danger of burning is imminent. Forest fires originate in many different ways, but they are all caused by human carelessness.

The careless brush burner, the careless camper and hunter, the careless logger, the careless smoker, and the careless railroad company that neglects to maintain effective spark arresters in their locomotives are contributors to forest fires which annually cause serious losses to the second growth forests of portions of southern Ohio.

It takes years for a forest to recover from the effects of a severe fire, and the menace of fires deter many landowners from planting waste lands.

Paid Old Debt
An aged woman entered Lynch's shoe store at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and asked for the proprietor. The woman said she had owed $1 on a bill for 50 years and wished to pay it. The woman's account was looked up in a ledger dated 1874, fifty-two years old, and it was found that $1 was due. She paid the dollar and left the store apparently contented.

SEVEN PASTORS
Of Pickaway County Have Entered Prince of Peace Declaration Contest.

Holding of a silver medal contest in this county to determine the county champion in the Prince of Peace Declaration Contest was assured today by word from the Ohio Council of Churches, Columbus, to the effect that seven pastors of the county have entered their churches in the contest.

The Ohio Council of Churches will award a silver medal in each county with five or more participating churches. Contestants for the silver medal will be the boys and girls who have previously won their respective local church contests. A bronze medal will be awarded the winner in each church with five or more contestants.

A list of pastors of this county who have enrolled their churches in the contest follows:

Rev. L. E. Hill, Stoutsville, Evangelical; Rev. W. W. Trout, Williamsport, M. E.; Rev. W. H. Harble, Williamsport, Darbyville M. E.; Rev. A. H. Beardsley, Circleville, First M. E.; Rev. H. O. Harbaugh, Ashville, Methodist Episcopal; Rev. George Weir, Circleville, U. B.; Rev. L. D. Phipps, Commercial Point, M. E.

Mine "Brakes" Costly
A sprag is a piece of wood which is thrown between the spokes of a wheel on a coal-mining car to bring it to a stop on a grade, acting as a brake, says the Dearborn Independent. Over 3,000,000 feet of timber is required annually for making sprags in Pennsylvania.

x HARTMAN THEATER x
x x x x x x x x

It is no exaggeration to say that Robert B. Mantell, dean of Shakespearean and classic actors on this continent, will hold a Shakespearean festival at the Hartman theater, Columbus, next week, which will also be his farewell engagement in Columbus, as he is making his final theatrical tour this season. "King Lear," "Macbeth" and "Hamlet," three widely different and great tragedies, and "As You Like It" and "The Merchant of Venice," two charming comedies, will be presented. And, to add a very special note of novelty "Hamlet" will be given in two different ways on Tuesday evening, April 13, in traditional manner—that is, with costumes and scenic effects always identified with the play and on Friday night, April 16, in modern manner—that is, with the dress and scenic background of 1926.

Mr. Mantell, by the way, was the first to give this tragedy in modern dress on this side of the Atlantic. At first he refused, but finally yielded to the public desire to see the play, that way, and gave it first in St. Louis, where it was received with such enthusiasm that he has since repeated it many times, and always to very large audiences. In the Pacific Coast cities of the United States also in Canada, it was warmly welcomed. How will Columbus like it?

"Richelieu" is a fascinating character, with his wonderful knowledge of men, his love of power and his remarkable assumption of kingly right. Saturday afternoon "The Merchant of Venice" with the combination of comedy and tragedy, as exemplified by "Portia" and "Shylock" will be played, as it is always a favorite with the students, young and old. "Macbeth," that Scotch historical tragedy, will bring the engagement to a close—and a fitting one, since Robert Bruce Mantell was born in Scotland.

Genevieve Hamper, who is co-star with Mr. Mantell, will also have an opportunity to play many different parts during the week. She is a favorite with theatergoers by reason of her beauty and talents. The entire supporting company is composed of players who have made a special study of Shakespearean drama and the classics. Each play will have its own proper and adequate setting and costuming.

SOME FACTS ABOUT
WASHINGTON SHAFT

Now that the Washington monument is temporarily closed to the public, for the installation of a new elevator, it is but natural, perhaps, that some of the facts that are associated with it and which have been taken for granted should interestingly be recalled. For instance, not everyone knows that the number going up the monument in a single day has often exceeded 10,000, or that there is not an officially inscribed line anywhere on the monument indicative even of the fact that the structure is in honor of George Washington. The shaft, by the way, was started in 1848, but after 150 feet or so of the total 555 were completed, there was a long period of suspension, due largely to the fact that the movement to finance it by popular subscription collapsed. The present simplicity of the structure was not originally contemplated, for around the base of the obelisk there was to have been a circular colonnaded building, while a decorated shaft with cornices and up-and-down indentures, etc., was part of the design.—Christian Science Monitor.

TEETH TURN PURPLE WITH RARE DISEASE

Weird Ailment Makes Sunlight Unbearable.

London.—A weird and rare disease that turns the teeth purple and makes sunlight on the skin unbearable was discussed by Prof. J. Barcroft, well-known English physiologist, in a lecture before the Royal Institution.

The affliction is so rare that there are only three known cases in England at the present time but it is of special interest to physiological and medical science because the purple substance, porphyrin, is closely allied to the red material, hemoglobin, that gives blood its color. Subtracting its iron and albumen from hemoglobin by appropriate chemical means leaves porphyrin.

No one knows yet why the bodies of these unfortunate patients should be manufacturing the wrong pigment. Professor Barcroft said, but the fact remains that it is constantly being formed and deposited in their bones, teeth and skin. Porphyrin reacts strongly to the "invisible light," or ultraviolet part of the solar spectrum, so that the victims of this mysterious ailment have to wear gloves constantly, and if they go out-of-doors in the daytime must put on heavy veils.

The only creature that normally wears porphyrin as part of its body-covering, Professor Barcroft said, is a tropical bird, the touraco, parts of whose feathers are stained a brilliant red with a porphyrin-copper compound known as turacin. This pigment is further remarkable because it seems to be the only normal occurrence of copper as a coloring compound in feathers or skin. Turacin is soluble in weak alkali, so that when it rains and the bird comes into contact with such alkaline solutions as occur frequently in nature, the poor touraco bleaches out.

Although porphyrin is rare as a normal coloring to adult animals, it is the commonest pigment found in eggshells of birds. Almost all the colors of birds' eggs, from the blue of the robin's to the homely brown of the hen's, contain this strange coloring matter.

SERMONS FOR THE FATHERS AND MOTHERS

Only a Few More Days Remain of the Evangelistic Campaign at Calvary.

The greatest question confronting the parents, or in fact, all people of our day, is "What is your life?" This is a question asked as to the uncertainty of time. It is even as a vapor that appeareth for a little while and then vanisheth away.

If this life that you are now living is lived as God would have it lived, you need not worry about the future.

First, let us notice, what is your life as it has to do with your secret conduct, or your life in the dark? We need to pray as the Psalmist of old; "Cleanse thou me from secret faults." There is not a thought that comes to the human mind, greater than the thought that God knows all we do. It is just wonderful when you have the consciousness that you are in the will of God.

In the second place let us think, what is your life as it has to do with your influence? Fathers, may I talk to you a little while? You know the little fellow in the home thinks that what papa does is all right. What kind of an example are you setting? What is your influence in the home?

Mother, the influence of a Godly mother means so much. What is your influence in the home? If the child should follow in your footsteps, would the steps lead that child heavenward?

I don't have to be in the home forty hours to know what the children hear. Oh, folks, will you give heed to the question I am asking you? What is your life in regard to your influence? The greatest legacy that can be left to any child is the influence of a Godly life.

Let us notice the requirements of God. We are each making our own record. Some may say, "Can a just and loving God cast a soul into hell?" No, God does not cast a soul into hell, but your own record will tell. If men can bring about such marvels as the radio, do you mean to tell me that God will be any less accurate?

You are going to face your own record at the judgment, but thank God there is power in Jesus Christ to blot out the old record, that from now on your life can be in accordance with His will.

Only a few days remain in which to hear the wonderful messages in sermon and song given by Brother and Sister Glass at Calvary Evangelical church. Don't fail to get into the service at 7:15 this evening. Have you a burden? Let Jesus bear it for you.

His Alibi

Carl M. Frasure Appointed University Fellow at Ohio State Recently

Carl M. Frasure, son of Mrs. A. J. Courtwright, of Stoutsville, has been notified by The Graduate School of his appointment as University Fellow in history at Ohio State university for next year. A fellowship is the highest scholastic honor granted by the university for graduate work and pays $500 with all fee exemptions. The holder's entire time is given over to graduate work.

Mr. Frasure graduated from Ohio State in 1924 and 1925 with the B. A., and M. A. degrees and since has been working on a Ph. D. degree at the university of Chicago and George Washington university, Washington D. C. He now holds the position of Teaching Fellow in history at the latter institution.

Mr. Frasure will return to Chicago this summer to continue his work in southern history under Professor William E. Dodd and in September will take up his fellowship at Ohio State for the doctor's degree.

Seemed a Little Unfair

An amusing side light on conditions in China is contained in a letter which has been received by Episcopal church officials in New York from Dr. Theodore Bliss of the Episcopal Church hospital at Wuchang.

"Recently," writes Doctor Bliss, "when the anti-foreign feeling was at its height, native student orators on the streets of Wuchang set forth to Chinese crowds the sins of the foreigners until their voices failed. Then they came to the church general hospital, conducted by the foreigners, to have their throats treated, so that they might return to the streets and more effectively renew their denunciations of the foreigners."

Bush Becomes a Vine

Plants do not need the ultraviolet rays of the sun, as do animals. Normal plants were grown where the rays were completely shut out. But when glass excluded the sun's blue rays as well, then the plants became spindling, and when the green rays also were cut out the plants became still taller and thinner, with cupped leaves. The bushy soy bean became a twining vine as a result of losing the violet, blue and green rays of the sun.

BROOKHART GETS REPUBLICAN BOOT

LOSES SEAT IN U. S. SENATE STECK TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Result Revives Belief in White House Activity—Far Reaching Political Effect is Forecast—Deposed Radical Legislator is all Worked up Over His Defeat and is Expected to Become a Foe Against Cummins in Coming Campaign in Iowa.

The senate Monday by a vote of 45 to 41 unseated Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, Republican, and seated in his seat Daniel F. Steck, his Democratic opponent in the 1924 election.

The vote was on a motion to adopt the majority report of the senate judiciary committee which, by a vote of 10 to 1, declared Mr. Steck to have been the winner in the election.

Mr. Steck took the oath of office five minutes after the result had been announced, and cast his first vote a few minutes later on a motion relating to adjournment.

Twenty-nine Democrats and 16 Republicans voted to sustain the majority report, while nine Democrats, 31 Republicans and one farmer-labor senator voted in favor of permitting Senator Brookhart to retain his seat.

Altho the Democrats supplied the majority of the votes for Mr. Steck, credit for his victory is given to Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee and the acknowledged spokesman for the Coolidge administration in the senate.

Senator Butler was able to wear enough administration senators from the leadership of Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, Republican floor leader, to accomplish Senator Brookhart's defeat.

Mr. Butler's opposition caused the belief to persist that the White House looked with favor upon the movement to oust Senator Brookhart, notwithstanding President Coolidge's denial last week that he had taken sides in the proceedings.

Senator Brookhart received the votes of radical and independent Republicans, of the radical wing on the Democratic side of the chamber, and of regular Republican senators who follow the leadership of Senators Curtis and David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania. Regular Democrats and Senator Butler's followers on the Republican side supported Mr. Steck.

The result was in doubt to the end. As late as 2 o'clock Brookhart supporters predicted a majority of two votes.

Leaders of the opposing forces exerted every effort to influence doubtful senators until time for the roll call. After more than two-thirds of the senators had voted the vote was a tie, it was not until Senator Joseph T.

Robinson, of Arkansas, had voted that Mr. Steck took the lead, never to be headed again.

The vote is expected to have far-reaching political consequences. The immediate effect will be the declaration of Senator Brookhart as a candidate in the Iowa senatorial primary election this year against Senator Albert B. Cummins, Republican, who is to be a candidate for renomination.

CATTLE DEALER KILLED

Ambrose J. Pontius, 49, stock buyer, 2287 Margaret avenue, Shepard, was killed at 2:30 p. m. Monday near Obetz Junction, when the truck he was driving was struck by a Scioto Valley traction car.

Pontius was driving south in the Groveport pike, enroute to get some cattle. He suffered broken legs, crushed chest and fractured skull.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Flora Pontius; two sons, Roy and Howard Pontius, two brothers, Orville and Grover Pontius and a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Long.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday, probably at the Schoedinger Co., chapel, State and Fifth streets. Burial will be at Lockbourne.

CHAPTER INSPECTION

Monday evening was the date of the annual inspection of Circleville chapter, Royal Arch Masons and the Mark Master and Past Master degrees were conferred on one candidate.

The inspecting officer was G. F. Johnson, of Chillicothe, and he complimented High Priest H. G. Stevenson and his subordinate officers on the work and the secretary on the condition of the records.

Following the work a lunch prepared by H. E. Betz & Son was served by the wives of the officers of the chapter.

183,000 Ladybirds a Profit to Insectary

Los Angeles, Cal.—A checkup just made on the Santa Barbara county (California) insectary, established two years ago, shows that a small profit has resulted from the operation of the plant, according to F. C. Greer, entomologist in charge. After all expenses including salaries were paid and 10 per cent allowed for depreciation of buildings and equipment, the county made a profit of $100 from the sale of 183,000 ladybirds at 2 cents each, Mr. Greer found.

The first year the insectary was in operation the county raised 50,000 ladybirds, which cleaned up mealy bug infestations in a number of Carpinteria lemon orchards. The mealy bug, however, has been spreading rapidly, although prevented from doing great damage by its enemy insects. This year Mr. Greer will try to raise 200,000 bugs in an effort to keep the lemon orchards commercially clean.

The ladybird is being employed not only in the lemon orchards, but in the walnut orchards as well, and on lettuce and other vegetables.

Norwalk—A woman sent James Lyons, youthful desperado and killer, back to jail from which he escaped, to face trial and possible execution for the murder of Frank McGrath, express company detective, shot to death at Havana, near Norwalk, on February 18.

Lyons, who escaped from the county jail Monday morning, plunging the entire district into an uproar and bringing scores of men, including national guardsmen, into the field to search for him, was safely in his cell again today.

Lorain—Paul Martinez, 23, known as the "Mexican Sheik," was bound over to the grand jury by the municipal court on a charge of first degree murder, 36 hours after the death of Jose Garza, whom he is accused of stabbing to death Sunday.

According to police, Martinez attacked Garza in a Mexican restaurant and then escaped after threatening the proprietor and a dozen diners with a gun.

Columbus—Reports of the examination of Bowling Green, announced today by State Auditor Tracy, revealed that $303.35 was alleged to have been paid to O. J. Petty, fire chief, as an "illegal payment."

The money, used for the "purchase of supplies and labor," was held to be illegal, according to the state examiners, under section 3808 of the Ohio general code, which stipulates "No officer of a corporation shall have any interest in expenditure of money on the corporation other than his fixed compensation."

Columbus—With bids on the sale of the Champion Engineering company, of Kenton, declared "too low" by Judge Sowers in the Franklin county common pleas court, hearings were continued in the case, for at least 30 days, to allow proper consideration of the bids.

Two firms were said to have submitted bids for the Kenton firm, a subsidiary of the Dollings company, of Columbus, but the names of the bidders and their prices were withheld by the court. According to reliable sources, however, one bid was said to have been made at approximately $105,000.

DECLAMATION PEACE CONTEST PROGRESSING

Seven Boys and Girls Will
Be In Competition at
Morris U. B. Church.

Young people of the local churches who will compete in the "Prince of Peace" Declamation contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches this spring are at work memorizing the selections which they will present in the competition in April 25, at 7:30 p. m., at the Morris U. B. church.

Rev. George Weir reports that the following boys and girls of the Morris U. B. church will take part in the contest: Marcella Hampshire, Raymond Paxton, Dorothy Anderson, Mary Elizabeth Rader, Mabel Dumm, Ethel Van Fossen, Goldie Van Fossen.

The winner in each local church that has five or more contestants will receive a bronze medal and will be entitled to compete with similar winners from other churches of the county in a silver medal contest. All silver medal winners from this congressional district will then meet in district contests, with a gold medal as the award.

Finally the district churches of the entire state will participate in the state contest in Columbus, June 23, with three cash prizes of $500, $300 and $200, accompanied by free tuition college scholarships for four years, two years and one year, respectively.

The local church contests will be held between April 11 and 25. Each contestant will deliver a selection on world peace, taken from a book of 20 such articles by some of the country's outstanding authorities in this field and published by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The contest is open to Ohio residents who on April 25 are 14 years old or over, but not yet 19, and who are not and have not been enrolled as college students.

Sends Cent to Pay Income Tax; Has Change Coming

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Officials at the internal revenue collector's office here are faced with the problem of making change for a man whose income tax is the smallest ever reported here.

Included in one day's mail was a sworn statement of annual income from a railway employee of El Reno, which, minus all deductions, showed the exact amount of 17 mills due the government.

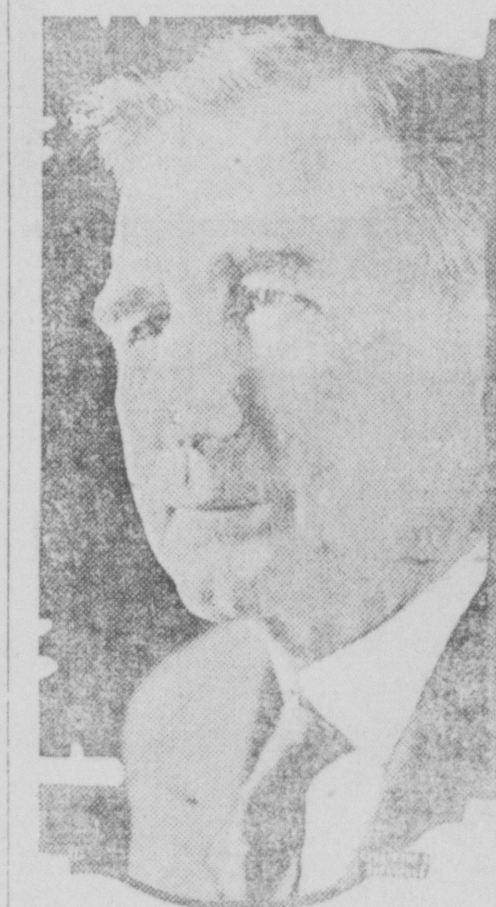

A penny accompanied the return and officials are in a quandary as to the proper method of procedure.

RADIO IN HOSPITAL

A complete radio system and broadcasting outfit has been installed in the White Cross hospital, Columbus, by which the chapel services and the music are transmitted to every part of the big buildings and all the patients are enabled to enjoy the splendid programs.

The system was sold to the hospital by Earl Kibler, who is the representative of the Kellogg company, of Chicago. It was used last Sunday for the first time and was a complete success and everybody connected with the hospital was delighted with the results.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

One of the most interesting and well attended meetings of the Von Bora society was held Monday evening in the social rooms of the church. A picnic supper was served at 6:30. The tables were beautiful with their decorations of various colored potted geraniums. After a bountiful supper Rev. Troutman as toastmaster in a clever manner introduced the speakers and musicians in the program as follows:

The regular business meeting then followed this program, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

NAVAL MUSEUM TO BE MADE OF OLD IRONSIDES

America's Famous Fighting
Ship Will House Relics
of Early Days.

The patriotism and generosity of business men has been stirred to give to "Old Ironsides" some of the materials necessary for her restoration. Already Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the First Naval District and National chairman of the save "Old Ironsides" fund committee has received assurance of contributions of materials that are the equivalent of about $50,000 in cash, and he has hopes that much of the material for the rebuilding of the ship will be donated by patriotic business associations.

The West Coast Lumbermen's association have given the masts and bowsprit of the ship from the great redwood forests of the west coast. The Southern Pine association of the south are looking over the plans and specifications sent them to see what their stock of pine can contribute; The Hardwood Manufacturers' association are planning to do their part. From Pensacola mud is being taken out live oak frigate knees and beams put in water storage 80 years ago.

One of the great paint manufacturers of the country is offering paint. A copper producing company is considering how to replace some of the copper first made by Paul Revere's foundry for "Old Ironsides." A contribution of cordage and one of sail cloth for the mighty wings of "Old Ironsides" are in prospect.

Such contributions are very welcome to the Save "Old Ironsides" fund as the material alone to go into the reconstruction of the ship will amount to over $200,000 if bought in the open market. The following will be used in reconditioning. Copper sheathing, cordage tar, oakum, sail cloth, furniture, dishes, beeswax, twine, flags, signal flags, boats, and old relics of the days of sailing ships. Wood working tools are also needed.

It is hoped by Rear Admiral Andrews to make "Old Ironsides" a veritable naval museum when this old historic treasure is once again fitted for sea duty. The navy department is scouring every corner of the nation to secure relics of the early days of the American navy. These will be placed aboard the U. S. S. Constitution and the names of the donors and the history of the relics will be incorporated in the records of the ship. In fact every contribution, whether in cash or in kind, will be preserved in the records which will be placed aboard the ship, so that when "Old Ironsides" makes her voyage along the sea coasts and to the lake and river ports Young America will have an opportunity to inspect a great naval museum, as well as to walk the hallowed decks of America's most famous fighting ship.

NAVAL WEDDING

Of more than usual interest in naval circles as well as local society was the wedding last evening in St. Stephen's Church, Hollywood, of Miss Burnice Walling, daughter of Commodore Burns Tracy Walling, U. S. N., and Mrs. Walling, and Ensign Harry Bailey Heneberger, U. S. N., son of Ellis Andrew Heneberger, of Winchester, Mass., the marriage service being read at 8 o'clock by Rev. Philip A. Easley in the presence of 200 relatives and friends.

The Easter motif was carried out in the altar decorations and all the male members of the wedding party, as well as many of the guests, were in full-dress uniform.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the wedding gown of her mother, which was also worn by her only sister, Mrs. James Sutherland Spore, wife of Lieutenant-Commander Spore, U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, at her wedding two years ago. It was of rich white satin made bouffant fashion, with trimmings of duchesse lace, the overslip of silver maline, while the court train was of the satin.

The veil forming a coronet about the head was held in place by diamond love knots and orange blossoms at either side of the head, and she carried an arm shower of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley, the same ribbon shower being used as at the weddings of her mother and sister. Silver slippers and hose completed the exquisite costume.

Mrs. Spore, her sister's only attendant, was most charming in gown of orchid taffeta, made bouffant, with hat to match, gold slippers and hose, and she carried an arm shower of pastel shades of sweet peas.

The best man and eight ushers were all classmates of Mr. Heneberger at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, as well as messmates aboard the U. S. S. Maryland. Ensign John Hammock served as best man, while the ushers were Ensigns M. J. West, J. H. Lewis, T. S. Daniel, P. M. Clyde, F. D. Karns Jr., George Gusek, F. B. Wright and T. Lesser, all in full-dress uniform, and after the ceremony Mr. Heneberger and his bride left the altar beneath the archway of the sabers of the ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, 6102 Glen Towers, seventy-five guests being bidden, intimate friends and relatives.

Mrs. Walling received her guests in a rose-colored gown with silver sequins. Among the distinguished guests present was the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Robert Boyd, widow of the late Capt. Boyd, U. S. N., who wore a gown of black satin and jet, and also Admiral and Mrs. Hughes, Admiral Jackson and his niece, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Admiral and Mrs. Ziegemeier, Capt. and Mrs. Thomas T. Craven and Miss Olga Craven.

Following the cutting of the bride's cake by the bride with her husband's sword, Mr. and Mrs. Heneberger left for a ten days' honeymoon, and they will return to San Pedro, where they will be at home at the Robal Inn until the U. S. S. Maryland leaves for Bremerton for overhauling and repairs, when Mr. Heneberger leaves with his ship, and Mrs. Heneberger will join him there.—Los Angeles, (Calif.) Sunday Times.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. G. W. Heffner, of this city.

Important Place for Legume Crop

Do Not Improve Soil Unless Many Conditions Are First Right.

Legumes have had an important place in crop production for many centuries. No doubt one of the chief reasons for the great popularity of this class of crops is the fact that under suitable conditions they may have a very desirable influence upon the crops which follow them. The increased corn yields following the use of a clover crop as a green manure testify to the worth of legumes for soil-building purposes.

Soil Improvement.

The idea of soil improvement is so frequently associated with the term legume that one often overlooks the fact that all legumes are not equally effective for this purpose, according to O. H. Sears, assistant chief of soil biology at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. As a matter of fact, legumes not only differ in their ability to improve crop yields, but they may at times even have a tendency to lower the fertility of the soil. The extent to which legumes are valuable in soil improvement will depend upon a great many conditions. One of these conditions is inoculation.

Legumes are considered soil-building crops primarily because they have access to atmospheric nitrogen, provided their roots are well supplied with nitrogen-gathering bacteria living within the nodules on the roots of the plants. Such plants are said to be inoculated. Inoculated legumes thus may secure their nitrogen from the inexhaustible supply of the air. If not inoculated, however, legumes, like other kinds of plants, must depend upon the soil for their nitrogen as well as their mineral requirements, and since they are heavy feeders upon nitrogen and other plant-food elements, they may be the most effective "miners" of soil fertility grown on the farm. To function as soil-building crops, legumes must, therefore, be inoculated.

Benefits Derived.

The method of utilizing the crop is another important factor in determining the benefit to be derived from the growing of a leguminous crop. Under the best conditions, even inoculated legumes secure only a part of their nitrogen requirements from the air. Approximately a third of the nitrogen found in the legume plants comes from the soil. It is apparent, therefore, that the soil content of this important element can be increased only by returning a portion of the plant to the soil in the form of roots, stubble, residues, and as green or stable manure. A larger proportion of the tops must be returned in the case of some legumes than is necessary with others. Nine-tenths of the soy-bean plant is contained within the tops, while about one-half the alfalfa plant is below the ground. Thus, removing the whole soy-bean crop and returning nothing in the way of manure or threshed straw would tend to deplete the soil, even though the plants were inoculated, whereas the removal of a crop of alfalfa would have a much less serious effect. Soil improvement can be accomplished therefore by returning a major portion of inoculated legumes to the soil in one form or another.

Poison Bran Best Remedy for Cutworm Invasion

Cutworms come more or less periodically and they should not be confused with the army worm which appears much less frequently. The army worm works both day and night while the cutworms do their work at night. When cutworms are abundant the poison bran is the best remedy. It is made of bran with enough molasses to make it palatable to the cutworms, and the two mixed with parisgreen. The bran may be sprinkled along the plants and it is the cheapest and most effective remedy. There is no reason to fear another attack next year on the same ground, although there are likely to be some. If they do appear when carrots and beets are up, then use the poison bran. The larvae or worms do not lay eggs as this is done in the moth or miller stage of the insect's life. If the pupae are numerous and they can be destroyed in some way that would help lessen the danger next year. If they march in numbers at night dig a trench along the plants to be safeguarded and put poison bran in the trench where they will eat it and die in droves.

Cow Testing Association Work Proves Grain Pays

"Does it pay to feed grain to my cows?" is a question which many farmers are asking themselves, report dairymen at Kansas State Agriculture college. Results have been obtained in cow-test association work clearly proving that it does, even in a season of high feed prices.

Under favorable conditions it is possible to produce an average of 150 pounds of fat yearly on a ration of good roughage such as alfalfa hay and silage.

But with cows capable of producing more than this it is very questionable if it is economical to limit the feed, say the dairy specialists. Like a manufacturing plant, the dairy cow is only operating on the most economical basis when being run to her normal capacity.

JAMES LYONS,
TWO GUN BAD MAN ESCAPED

Last Night From Huron County Jail a Few Hours Before He Was To Have Been Placed On Trial
For Murder.

Norwalk, O., April 12.—(UP.)
—James Lyons, two gun "bad man" from Huron county, escaped from the county jail here today a few hours before he was to be placed on trial for the murder of Frank McGrath, American Railway Express Company detective.

Lyons' cell was on the second floor of the jail.

Sheriff Edward Gregory had taken extra precautions to prevent the youth's escape but had failed to put a guard at the cell
door.

Gregory visited the cell last
night at 7:30 o'clock to make sure his prisoner was safe. The
turnkey had just made the rounds and had examined the cell lock.

The escape was discovered at 7 a. m. when a deputy turnkey
took the prisoner's breakfast to
the cell.

The cell door and the door
leading from the bull pen to the bridge of sighs were open.
Lyons' cot was empty.

A window in the bridge of sighs had been raised and a blanket tied to a radiator, was
suspended from the window.

Lyons will never be captured
alive Sheriff Gregory believes.

"The boy has shot his way out
of too many holes to surrender
now, only to face death in the electric chair," Gregory declared.
"If we should surround him and
attempt to capture him, someone
is going to be hurt."

James Lyons had only been permitted to see his parents, his sister, Belle, 16, and his attorney, since he was returned from Michigan.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Lyons, visited both boys
Saturday. They may have aided
James to escape, Gregory said,
adding however, that he doubted
that Mr. and Mrs. Lyons would take such a risk.

James had been permitted use
of the regular eating utensils
and it was regarded as a certainty that he had fashioned a crude key from a spoon and timed his
plans to the minute.

The exact hour of escape is believed to have been 5:30 a. m.

Trained for Warfare

By a federal law of 1910, military training in Australia is compulsory on all male citizens between the ages of twelve and twenty-six, and in the
cadet corps from twelve to eighteen
years; in the citizen soldiers, twenty
to twenty-six, with short periods of
training in the field. The universal
training law was continued in 1922,
but its operation is restricted to the
more populous centers and confined to youths between seventeen and twenty years of age.

Just Begun

Merle Waterman, boys' secretary of
the Hollywood Y. M. C. A., was rudely
interrupted in the middle of an engrossing novel by Louis Mellet, physical director and basketball coach.
"Have you been reading Longfel-
low?" Louis wanted to know.
"Now, only about fifteen minutes,"
grunted Merle, turning over another
page.

There were no baby incubators in
those days and his survival occasioned
widespread interest.

Helping Late Comers

Some of the more fashionable theaters playing legitimate drama are
now printing a synopsis of the first
act of their show in the program, thus
enabling the majority of the audience,
who come late, to know what is going
on. —The Outlook.

"Breakfast is evidently a serious function all the world over."
"Huh?"
"Nobody wants music with it."

Bird Widows Don't Mourn
In bird world, widowhood does not
for long interfere with the rearing of a family. William Lyon, president of the Inland Bird-Banding association,
saw the mate of a wren killed. Twenty minutes after its death, Mrs. Wren
returned to her nest with a new mate.

Artificial Teeth
Most authorities agree that artificial teeth should be worn constantly. Removing them for the night causes the
jaws to assume an unnatural position,
bringing a pressure upon the nerve at
the hinge of the jaw. This has even been known to cause deafness.

Evil of Prejudice
It is no exaggeration to say that the greatest obstacle to human progress along every line is to be found in human prejudices. It is our prejudices that blind us to the truth, and it is truth alone that can ever make men
free.—John Herman Randall.

SPEND WINTER IN THE LAND OF SUNSHINE

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver
Well Known Residents
of St. Petersburg.

The St. Petersburg (Florida) Times in its issue of April 4, printed the following article in reference to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver, of South Court street:

For 65 years Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weaver, Circleville, Ohio, have been 1 man and wife. The Weavers have been coming to St. Petersburg for the 90 past 28 years, and this past week they 50 started home for the summer, planning to return here again next fall, 1 80 for their 29th season. Mr. and Mrs. 2 10 Weaver lived for seven years at the Florence Villa, for 20 years at the Ansonia and this past season at the 10 00 Tamiami hotel.

Not a brick of pavement was laid 13 91 in the streets of St. Petersburg when the Weavers first came down here. 48 39 But the love of the city was soon in 6 70 stilled in their hearts and today the Sunshine city forms a big part of 2 40 their affections. They are very fond of the city and they have a wide circle of friends among the sojourners who have been coming year after year and among the folks who are among the more recent arrivals. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver make friends because they are charming folks, sterling characters.

The Weaver home in Circleville is always open to young folks and while they have a grown son and granddaughter and two charming grandchildren, they never have lost their interest in young children and young folks. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver will never grow old at heart. Mrs. Weaver has a delightful manner of dress and she is of the opinion that just because a woman has passed the half century is no reason why she should don blacks, browns and black. Mr. Weaver has been in the wholesale grocery business for a good many years, under the firm name of W. J. Weaver & Son. Today the only son and child of the Weavers, Charles Weaver, conducts the business while the father, as the latter says, "plays." The son lives right next door to the father and mother and the two grandchildren are the pride and joy of the two households.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were born and brought up in the Methodist faith. Mr. Weaver is a Mason and a Shriner and has gone thru all the Masonic degrees, including the 32d.

In the early years when the Weavers first began to come to St. Petersburg they never returned to their hotel after a walk about the city but what they had to take off their shoes and shake out the sand. Mrs. Weaver laughingly added that they got Florida sand into their shoes early, that they have never shaken it all out and they never expect to.

The Weavers wholesale business is one of the largest of its kind in the midwest and the concern is located in the very town where the father first saw the light of day. Mr. Weaver Sr. was born in Circleville in a log cabin over 80 years ago. When Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were married, 65 years ago, they drove away from the minister's home and the happy and courageous groom had but $6.50 in his pocket. They were young and full of optimism and judging from the fruits of their efforts they were on the right track.

It has always been Mrs. Weaver's custom to give the son a turkey dinner on his birthday, but this year they will have to postpone the event for a few days, until they get home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Weaver came here 28 years ago they were planning to spend but two weeks here. But their very first visit was of longer duration than they originally intended and now each year they come with the express purpose of spending the entire season. They come early and stay late and if everyone followed the advice of this remarkable Circleville, Ohio, couple, St. Petersburg's population would be vastly larger than it is today.

Spot to Be Guarded

Authorities say the Adams apple is the most sensitive spot on the human body. Pressure with both thumbs at this point is almost unendurable while a sharp blow there will paralyze the power of speech and interfere with breathing and swallowing to a degree that is torture.

Modern Dodgers

Formerly Americans dodged only taxes, work and cars. Now they dodge winter, also, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

SAYS FRENCH HAVE MASTERED MEASLES

Nation's Health Declares It Can Be Controlled.

Washington.—Development of an anti-measles seroprophylaxis by French scientists promises to make possible the prevention and control of measles, "the most serious acute disease in existence," according to the Nation's Health. The Public Welfare Administration of Paris, France, has established two centers for the production of serum from measles convalescents and for its application in accordance with epidemiological and clinical studies of Prof. Leon Bernard and his pupils, Robert Debre and Pierre Joannon.

Already the work is considered to have demonstrated the practicability of laboratories of anti-measles seroprophylaxis attached to children's hospitals and hospitals for infectious diseases and the effective nature of preventive work in measles as developed by these research workers, especially in institutional fields, says the writer. It is stated that no untoward incident or criticism has arisen during the progress of the work.

Preventive Properties Known.

"The method usually applied has been to inject the serum from the first to the sixth day of incubation. This prevents the impending attack of measles and confers a transient immunity from the disease."

"Discarding the traditional methods, Robert Debre proposes as an improvement the use of sero-attenuation to replace sero-prevention. The serum is injected at the end of the period of incubation. The measles is not prevented, but it appears in a greatly attenuated form. Mucous catarrh is either totally absent or very slight. Catarrh hardly ever occurs. Persistent well-being characterizes the patient throughout, the dread complications of otitis or pleuro-pneumonia have never arisen, and a permanent or greatly prolonged immunity conferred by the prevention methods formerly used."

"Experience has not extended over a sufficiently long period for an estimate of statistical results on the measures of prevention, but Professor Bernard's method of inducing immunity has been successfully utilized to prevent epidemics in institutions, and in the families of children exposed, and the memorandum of Professor Bernard reported by the health committee of the League of Nations, declares that the effectiveness of sero-prophylaxis is now definitely established and the practical value of sero-prophylaxis is fully proved by results so far achieved."

Most Serious Acute Disease.

"Measles is the most serious acute disease in existence. In the last 25 years, the total mortality due to diphtheria has fallen off in ten of the principal European countries by 67 per cent, scarlet fever mortality by 46 per cent, and whooping cough by 43 per cent. Mortality from measles over the same period has fallen off only 19 per cent. It is so prevalent that hardly anyone in any part of the world can hope to avoid it."

"The figures adduced recently by the American Journal of Hygiene go to show that more than 90 per cent of urban populations in England, Canada and the United States contract measles at some period of their lives."

"To go back to Professor Bernard's figures, in the whole of Europe with the exception of Russia and the Balkans, measles caused 700,167 deaths in the ten years from 1900 to 1910. In the United States, in the zones subject to notification, measles has caused more than 100,000 deaths in the 20 years from 1901 to 1920."

"The epidemiological aspects of measles are interesting as brought out by the pupils of Professor Bernard. The reason the seriousness of measles is not fully appreciated is that the disease has quite a different effect according to the categories of children it attacks. As a general rule, measles is mild in the country and in the small towns. It is much more dangerous in the great crowds of the large city. Thus, in France, measles mortality is three times greater in Paris than in communes of less than 5,000 inhabitants. The difference is negligible in the case of diphtheria and whooping cough."

Bigger Than Eiffel

Milan.—An iron tower, modeled after the Eiffel tower in Paris but "bigger and better" in every way, is to be built here and named after Premier Mussolini. It will be dedicated in 1928, the tenth anniversary of the Italian victory over Austria.

Prehistoric Ruins

Guayaquil, Ecuador.—Prehistoric ruins of a city covering 3.11 square miles have been found by Major Ibarrido of the Ecuadorian army in the Huaca mountains in Carchi province, near the Colombian border.

AMUSEMENTS

"Womanhandled," the answer to "Manhandled" by the same author, is the feature at the Met theater. Richard Dix is starred with Esther Ralston Margaret Morris, Edmund Breese and Ivan Simpson in the supporting cast.

Directed by Gregory LaCava as his first picture for Paramount, "Womanhandled" tells a story of modern western ranch life—a farce comedy in which the star, as Bill Dana, an eastern "softly," hires himself to the wild and woolly west to make a real man of himself. There is, of course, a pretty girl behind it all—Miss Ralston who greatly admires men of "the great open spaces." The picture is taken up with how the star goes about winning the girl's heart when he arrives on his uncle's ranch in Arizona and finds that the west of yesterday and the west of today are entirely different.

How he goes about rearranging things, digging up "atmosphere" so as to make the ranch look like "the real thing" when the girl arrives to see her new made hero is a big laugh. And it's riot when the girl sees thru the scheme and prances off in a huff to "home and mother."

Rapid-fire comedy, warm romance and plenty of rousing action pack every foot of Womanhandled." The title alone ought to be enough to get you in and, believe us, the picture will surely make you mighty glad you went.

"Womanhandled" is the type of clean, keen, wholesome material the whole family will enjoy

Luther Reed wrote the screen play from Arthur Stringer's Saturday Evening Post story.

TWO BILLION

Dollars In Foreign Oil Investments Are At Stake In Mexican Crisis.

A strict interpretation of the new land and petroleum laws in Mexico would practically confiscate two billion dollars of foreign investments in oil, more than one billion dollars in mining and approximately another billion dollars in ranching, agriculture and business, according to Gerald R. Severn, in an article in this week's Liberty.

"Few persons realize how important a crisis in Mexican oil is to industry in the United States," writes the author. "Since May 14, 1901, Mexico has supplied practically one-quarter of the oil of the world—with apparently the greatest supplies still untouched."

In the Tampico field, Mr. Severn explains, there is the largest gusher in the world. It produced more than 110,000,000 barrels after running wild for three months, pouring millions of gallons into the Buena Vista river. There are a dozen wells with records of more than fifty million barrels and one field has had two gushers that have produced more than seventy million barrels. One gusher, which came in on February 9, 1916, went wild for nine days, running 260,858 barrels a day, and after being capped produced eighty million barrels and still is producing.

"Mexico last year discovered more oil than any field in the world," says the writer, "although shipments decreased."

"And herein is a phase of the situation that is not mentioned either by Mexicans or by the oil companies, for different reasons but that bears acutely upon the present crisis. That is the fact that wells have been drilled faster than pipe lines and ships could take the oil away."

"As a result, enough big producing wells have been drilled and capped to supply the world with oil for a long time. The Mexican administration now claims the right to control and operate, or lease to others for operation, all oil lands, and could take possession and unload hundreds of millions of barrels of oil merely by turning a valve and without the further investment of a cent."

"There is no doubt of Mexico's right, legal and moral, to enact laws governing ownership of land or mineral rights by aliens, but Mexico's right to dictate who shall own, control, and operate industries already established, legally purchased, and recognized by its own Supreme Court, is disputed."

"The big international principle involved is whether a government may confiscate property of aliens and whether the legislative branch of any government may overrule the decision of its Supreme Court."

REVIVE OLD CELTIC LANGUAGE IN ERIN

"An Roinn Talaithe Agus Talmhaíochta, Po-oinn Aicid na Píandáil." This mysterious statement means nothing more startling than "Department of Land and Agriculture, Plant Disease Division."

It heads the letters of the Free State government potato expert of Ireland and is a specimen of the old Celtic language used many centuries ago and which many Irish, in their ardent love of tradition, would revive for common usage, says the Los Angeles Times.

The "Irish" potato, so-called, was grown first by natives of South America and was transported to Europe by Spanish explorers. It was introduced into Great Britain in 1586 by Sir Francis Drake. It became very popular in Ireland, for it took kindly to the soil and climate there and produced great stocks of cheap food.

For several years, the English gardeners did not care for it, but today it is more highly developed in England than in America.

SEVEN IN JURY FIXING CASE PLEAD NOT GUILTY

James Donovan Admits Guilt In U. S. Court of Trying To Tamper With Kirby Jury.

Cleveland, April 10.—Seven of the 10 persons cited earlier in the week by a federal grand jury indictment charging conspiracy to "fix" prospective jurors called for duty in the two government court trials of Josiah Kirby, appeared today before Judge D. C. Westenhaver, pleaded not guilty and were liberated under bond pending trial June 14.

An eighth, James Donovan, Mansfield politician, pleaded guilty, while the remaining two defendants were not required to appear.

Those who pleaded not guilty are: Ben A. Williamson, former Cleveland newspaper man, now in the employ of Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount Co.; his wife, Martha Ann Williamson; Daisy Burneson, stenographer for a Cleveland law firm; Jesse E. La Dow, Mansfield lawyer; Gibson P. Gillmer, Warren attorney; Bellman Jones, reporter who covered Kirby's government court trials for out-of-town newspapers, and Meta Kretschman, Kirby's private secretary.

Five of the seven, Williamson and La Dow excepted, were held in bond of $2,000 each, which they furnished. Williamson and La Dow, under heavy bond as a result of previous individual indictments returned against them, were permitted to go free without additional security.

Judge Westenhaver deferred passage of sentence on Donovan. Donovan pleaded guilty to an individual indictment returned some time ago. He furnished bond on that occasion. No additional security was required today.

Kirby and William R. Irvin, Akron attorney, were not required to appear, Irvin because he is ill and Kirby because he recently was granted permission to return to California.

THE FOREST FIRE MENACE

Protection against forest fires is the greatest need for some 1-150,000 acres of Ohio's permanent forest lands. Every spring and fall the danger of burning is imminent. Forest fires originate in many different ways, but they are all caused by human carelessness.

The careless brush burner, the careless camper and hunter, the careless logger, the careless smoker, and the careless railroad company that neglects to maintain effective spark arresters in their locomotives are contributors to forest fires which annually cause serious losses to the second growth forests of portions of southern Ohio.

It takes years for a forest to recover from the effects of a severe fire, and the menace of fires deter many landowners from planting waste lands.

The forest fire wardens can do a good service in extinguishing fires, but it requires the co-operation of the public to prevent them. It is more economical to prevent fires than to suppress them.

Paid Old Debt

An aged woman entered Lynch's shoe store at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and asked for the proprietor. The woman said she had owed $1 on a bill for 50 years and wished to pay it. The woman's account was looked up in a ledger dated 1874, fifty-two years old, and it was found that $1 was due. She paid the dollar and left the store apparently contented.

SEVEN PASTORS

Of Pickaway County Have Entered Prince of Peace Declaration Contest.

Holding of a silver medal contest in this county to determine the county champion in the Prince of Peace Declaration Contest was assured today by word from the Ohio Council of Churches, Columbus, to the effect that seven pastors of the county have entered their churches in the contest.

The Ohio Council of Churches will award a silver medal in each county with five or more participating churches. Contestants for the silver medal will be the boys and girls who have previously won their respective local church contests. A bronze medal will be awarded the winner in each church with five or more contestants.

A list of pastors of this county who have enrolled their churches in the contest follows:

Rev. L. E. Hill, Stoutsville, Evangelical; Rev. W. W. Trout, Williamsport, M. E.; Rev. W. H. Harble, Williamsport, Darbyville M. E.; Rev. A. H. Beardsley, Circleville, First M. E.; Rev. H. O. Harbaugh, Ashville, Methodist Episcopal; Rev. George Weir, Circleville, U. B.; Rev. L. D. Phipps, Commercial Point, M. E.

Mine "Brakes" Costly

A sprag is a piece of wood which is thrown between the spokes of a wheel on a coal-mining car to bring it to a stop on a grade, acting as a brake, says the Dearborn Independent. Over 3,000,000 feet of timber is required annually for making sprags in Pennsylvania.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x
x x x x x x x x

It is no exaggeration to say that Robert B. Mantell, dean of Shakespearean and classic actors on this continent, will hold a Shakespearean festival at the Hartman theater, Columbus, next week, which will also be his farewell engagement in Columbus, as he is making his final theatrical tour this season. "King Lear," "Macbeth" and "Hamlet," three widely different and great tragedies, and "As You Like It" and "The Merchant of Venice," two charming comedies, will be presented. And, to add a very special note of novelty "Hamlet" will be given in two different ways on Tuesday evening, April 13, in traditional manner—that is, with costumes and scenic effects always identified with the play and on Friday night, April 16, in modern manner—that is, with the dress and scenic background of 1926.

Mr. Mantell, by the way, was the first to give this tragedy in modern dress on this side of the Atlantic. At first he refused, but finally yielded to the public desire to see the play, that way, and gave it first in St. Louis, where it was received with such enthusiasm that he has since repeated it many times, and always to very large audiences. In the Pacific Coast cities of the United States also in Canada, it was warmly welcomed. How will Columbus like it?

"Merchant of Venice," one of the finest of all Shakespearean tragedies, will be the bill for the opening performance on Monday evening, also for Saturday matinee. "As You Like It" should prove a charming afternoon's entertainment for the ladies on Wednesday, with beautiful Genevieve Hamper as "Rosalind."

"Richelieu" is a fascinating character, with his wonderful knowledge of men, his love of power and his remarkable assumption of kingly right. Saturday afternoon "The Merchant of Venice" with the combination of comedy and tragedy, as exemplified by "Portia" and "Shylock" will be played, as it is always a favorite with the students, young and old. "Macbeth," that Scotch historical tragedy, will bring the engagement to a close—and a fitting one, since Robert Bruce Mantell was born in Scotland.

Genevieve Hamper, who is co-star with Mr. Mantell, will also have an opportunity to play many different parts during the week. She is a favorite with theatergoers by reason of her beauty and talents. The entire supporting company is composed of players who have made a special study of Shakespearean drama and the classics. Each play will have its own proper and adequate setting and costuming.

SOME FACTS ABOUT WASHINGTON SHAFT

Now that the Washington monument is temporarily closed to the public, for the installation of a new elevator, it is but natural, perhaps, that some of the facts that are associated with it and which have been taken for granted should interestingly be recalled. For instance, not everyone knows that the number going up the monument in a single day has often exceeded 10,000, or that there is not an officially inscribed line anywhere on the monument indicative even of the fact that the structure is in honor of George Washington. The shaft, by the way, was started in 1848, but after 150 feet or so of the total 555 were completed, there was a long period of suspension, due largely to the fact that the movement to finance it by popular subscription collapsed. The present simplicity of the structure was not originally contemplated, for around the base of the obelisk there was to have been a circular colonnaded building, while a decorated shaft with cornices and up-and-down indentures, etc., was part of the design.—Christian Science Monitor.

TEETH TURN PURPLE WITH RARE DISEASE

Weird Ailment Makes Sunlight Unbearable.

London.—A weird and rare disease that turns the teeth purple and makes sunlight on the skin unbearable was discussed by Prof. J. Barcroft, well-known English physiologist, in a lecture before the Royal Institution.

The affliction is so rare that there are only three known cases in England at the present time, but it is of special interest to physiological and medical science because the purple substance, porphyrin, is closely allied to the red material, hemoglobin, that gives blood its color. Subtracting its iron and albumen from hemoglobin by appropriate chemical means leaves porphyrin.

No one knows yet why the bodies of these unfortunate patients should be manufacturing the wrong pigment. Professor Barcroft said, but the fact remains that it is constantly being formed and deposited in their bones, teeth and skin. Porphyrin reacts strongly to the "invisible light," or ultraviolet part of the solar spectrum, so that the victims of this mysterious ailment have to wear gloves constantly, and if they go out-of-doors in the daytime must put on heavy veils.

The only creature that normally wears porphyrin as part of its body-covering, Professor Barcroft said, is a tropical bird, the touraco, parts of whose feathers are stained a brilliant red with a porphyrin-copper compound known as turacin. This pigment is further remarkable because it seems to be the only normal occurrence of copper as a coloring compound in feathers or skin. Turacin is soluble in weak alkali, so that when it rains and the bird comes into contact with such alkaline solutions as occur frequently in nature, the poor touraco bleaches out.

Although porphyrin is rare as a normal coloring to adult animals, it is the commonest pigment found in egg shells of birds. Almost all the colors of birds' eggs, from the blue of the robin's to the homely brown of the hen's, contain this strange coloring matter.

SERMONS FOR THE FATHERS AND MOTHERS

Only a Few More Days Remain of the Evangelistic Campaign at Calvary.

The greatest question confronting the parents, or in fact, all people of our day, is "What is your life?" This is a question asked as to the uncertainty of time. It is even as a vapor that appeareth for a little while and then vanisheth away.

If this life that you are now living is lived as God would have it lived, you need not worry about the future.

First, let us notice, what is your life as it has to do with your secret conduct, or your life in the dark? We need to pray as the Psalmist of old; "Cleanse thou me from secret faults." There is not a thought that comes to the human mind, greater than the thought that God knows all we do. It is just wonderful when you have the consciousness that you are in the will of God.

In the second place let us think, what is your life as it has to do with your influence? Fathers, may I talk to you a little while? You know the little fellow in the home thinks that what papa does is all right. What kind of an example are you setting? What is your influence in the home?

Mother, the influence of a Godly mother means so much. What is your influence in the home? If the child should follow in your footsteps, would the steps lead that child heavenward?

I don't have to be in the home forty hours to know what the children hear. Oh, folks, will you give heed to the question I am asking you? What is your life in regard to your influence? The greatest legacy that can be left to any child is the influence of a Godly life.

Let us notice the requirements of God. We are each making our own record. Some may say, "Can a just and loving God cast a soul into hell?" No, God does not cast a soul into hell, but your own record will tell. If men can bring about such marvels as the radio, do you mean to tell me that God will be any less accurate?

You are going to face your own record at the judgment, but thank God there is power in Jesus Christ to blot out the old record, that from now on your life can be in accordance with His will.

Only a few days remain in which to hear the wonderful messages in sermon and song given by Brother and Sister Glass at Calvary Evangelical church. Don't fail to get into the service at 7:15 this evening. Have you a burden? Let Jesus bear it for you.

His Alibi

Wife (suspiciously)—John, there's a long hair on your coat.

Spring Suits

More Beautiful and More of Them.

We said the same thing last year---you bet we did---and we'll say it again next---for when we can't shout progress we won't shout at all.

We have more suits and more style to offer you this Spring. Going ahead---that's our idea of being alive---and when we have to stand still we'll call for flowers.

Every model that's new and newer is here for you---and nothing else.

Come in and spend a pleasant hour of seeing in 15 minutes of time.

STOUTSVILLE BOY RECEIVES GREAT HONORS

Carl M. Frasure Appointed University Fellow at Ohio State Recently

Carl M. Frasure, son of Mrs. A. J. Courtright, of Stoutsville, has been notified by The Graduate School of his appointment as University Fellow in history at Ohio State university for next year. A fellowship is the highest scholastic honor granted by the university for graduate work and pays $500 with all fee exemptions. The holder's entire time is given over to graduate work.

Mr. Frasure graduated from Ohio State in 1924 and 1925 with the B. A., and M. A. degrees and since has been working on a Ph. D. degree at the university of Chicago and George Washington university, Washington D. C. He now holds the position of Teaching Fellow in history at the latter institution.

Mr. Frasure will return to Chicago this summer to continue his work in southern history under Professor William E. Dodd and in September will take up his fellowship at Ohio State for the doctor's degree.

Seemed a Little Unfair

An amusing side light on conditions in China is contained in a letter which has been received by Episcopal church officials in New York from Dr. Theodore Bliss of the Episcopal Church hospital at Wuchang.

"Recently," writes Doctor Bliss, "when the anti-foreign feeling was at its height, native student orators on the streets of Wuchang set forth to Chinese crowds the sins of the foreigners until their voices failed. Then they came to the church general hospital, conducted by the foreigners, to have their throats treated, so that they might return to the streets and more effectively renew their denunciations of the foreigners."

Pa's Pile

The pies that mother used to make seem even more wonderful when we consider the dough that father used to make.

Bush Becomes a Vine

Plants do not need the ultraviolet rays of the sun, as do animals. Normal plants were grown where the rays were completely shut out. But when glass excluded the sun's blue rays as well, then the plants became spindling, and when the green rays also were cut out the plants became still taller and thinner, with cupped leaves. The bushy soy bean became a twining vine as a result of losing the violet, blue and green rays of the sun.
